

IT risk and compliance as a service: Solving problems and getting work done

Enabled by KPMG Powered Enterprise | Technology Risk Management

Helping you meet IT risk and compliance needs during transformation, mergers, and acquisitions

During transformation and major business changes, organizations have to split their focus between delivering on strategic business outcomes in parallel to addressing challenges with complex risk environments and ever-changing regulatory expectations. Risk leaders need to plan additional capacity to address information technology (IT) risk and compliance needs, such as Sarbanes-Oxley, which can be vast and time consuming in large organizations.

Organizations are struggling to keep pace with the rate of change and disruption in risk management

Risk leaders are looking for help in “solving problems and getting work done”
